AN ELECTION FOR ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY DELEGATES TO A CONVENTION TO REVISE THE STATE CONSTITUTION WILL BE HELD ON THE FIRST THURSDAY OF AUGUST, 1875. THE CONVENTION WILL MEET AT RALEIGH ON THE 6TH OF THE FOLLOWING SEPTEMBER.

General Ransom.

There has been in this immediate locality since the war an under current of opposition to General Ransom which seems to have arisen from his anti-bellum record. Whether there were just grounds or not for such, we are not prepared to say; but it is extremely gratifying to know that his senatorial conduct has been all that is necessary to redeem him in the opinions of those who before were opposed to his election.

His great speech delivered just before the adjournment of the Senate has elicited encomiums from valuable sources alike throughout the North and the South. A state that has such an appreciation of oratory as Virginia is indeed a valuable source and the criticism of a Virginian of culture and political experience upon a speech may be taken as high authority.

We therefore attach a special value to the opinions of the Richmond Enquirer on the great speech of our gifted Senator Ransom. Hear what that journal says:

"A more elaborate or exhaustive argument could not have been made, while in beauty of style and elegance of diction it will compare favorably with the most celebrated orators that have been preserved to us either from ancient or modern time."

It is a great speech indeed, full of wonderful beauty of language underlaid by a substratum of strong common sense. As well expressed by a gentleman of it is city, "each graceful tendril winds around, while it conceals a rod of iron."

Some year or so ago we had the pleasure of hearing many of the sentiments expressed by the orator in this his great speech, uttered in a more condensed, but scarcely less forcible form before an audience at the Salisbury Agricultural Fair. The audience was small, comparatively, and the speech was unpublished. We then, in commenting upon it, said that it was a speech for a nation to hear."

The Raleigh News in noticing the Enquirer extract well says our wish is now realized. The nation is his audience and the grand patriotic emotions, the generous sentiments, and the masterly intellect of M. W. Ransom have found that field which was the fit one for the orator.

Would that the North would give full belief to what we know to be true, that the sentiments of the speaker are sincere, and that they are shared in common by far the majority of the Southern people. Judging from the tone of the Northern Press. American vanity has been tickled in a measure in the bestowal of the Cardinals hat upon Archbishop McCloskey. Some needlessly fear that this high elevation of an American citizen argues the Romish Church is rapidly growing in the United States. But not so. That church merely keeps pace more or less with the tide of foreign emigration and there is little ground for fears on the part of the timid who anticipate a union of state and church in this country. A severance between state and church will always exist so long as we continue to maintain republican institutions on this continent.

The anti-Catholic bill which passed the Prussian parliament last week proposes to every priest of the Roman church an oath of allegiance to the civil power; if he accepts it, all well and good. If he refuses to take the oath, his salary out of the State treasury stops. These state allowances in the case of a bishop amount to five or six thousands, and dollars a year, and the total burden on the treasury is 900,000 thalers, or less than $700,000. It is thought that this policy will end in dropping the subsidies to both the Catholic and the Protestant churches.

Prince Blucher, a son of the celebrated field marshal, died on the 8th inst. at Radnau, Austria, 78 years of age.

Don Platt and Senator Ransom. Says the Journal: It is a rare thing for Don Platt to compliment a member of the Federal Congress. He uses his paper, The Capital, to ridicule and criticize the weaknesses and short-comings of our lawmakers, and was wont to him who falls a victim to his remorseless sarcasm. Indeed so rare is it that we see a compliment that we cannot call to mind one he has paid during the whole session, except the following:

"We have some spoken literature which we have pigeon-holed for future reference and use. One is the eloquent speech of the Hon. Matt W. Ransom, Senator of North Carolina, one of the most admirable efforts in behalf of justice to the South delivered in Congress; the other is the effort of Hon. W. Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, at the Eads banquet at St. Louis. Both these gentlemen, in their several ways, are remarkable figures on the stage of to-day, and we prophesy for them famous careers."

The estimate of a correspondent of this journal that there are at this time no less than two hundred thousand men in organizations, under arms and very busily engaged in drilling throughout the south, is going the rounds of the press, and attracts no little attention. National Republican.

This base falsehood is only going the rounds of a few of such radical papers as Grant's kitchen organ, and is known by everybody in the south, black or white, to be an infamous lie, manufactured out of whole cloth. There are not as many white troops organized in the south as there are colored troops, and as for there being any war spirit in these military companies, it is too ridiculous to need comment.

Senator M. W. Ransom will accept our thanks for a copy of the Congressional Directory. It contains brief sketches of all the Senators and members of Congress—the names of all the government officials, in Washington, and much other matter of value and interest. We find in it the following in regard to our two Senators:

"Matt W. Ransom, of Northampton county, (post-office, Weldon,) was born in Warren county, North Carolina, in 1826; received an academic education; graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1847; studied law and was admitted to the bar on graduating in 1847; was a lawyer and planter; was elected Attorney-General of North Carolina in 1852, and was a Peace Commissioner from the State of North Carolina to the Congress of Southern States at Montgomery, Alabama, in 1861; entered the Confederate Army, serving as lieutenant-colonel, brigadier-general and major general, and surrendered at Appomattox; was elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat in January, 1872. His term of service will expire March 3, 1877."

"Augustus Summerfield Merriam, of Raleigh, was born in Buncombe (now Transylvania) county, North Carolina, September 15, 1830; he received a common-school education; studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1851, and is a practicing lawyer; was often elected county attorney in several counties; was a member of the Legislature of North Carolina in 1860-'61; was Solicitor of the eighth judicial district of North Carolina from 1861 to 1865; was elected by the Legislature a Judge of the Superior Court in 1865, and continued to hold that office until August, 1867, when he resigned his office, sitting as a civil Judge; he was elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat, to succeed John Pool, Republican, and took his seat March 4, 1873. His term of service will expire March 3, 1879."

The celebrated farmer and agricultural writer, David Dickson Esq., died at his home in Oxford, Georgia, on the 16th inst., after a protracted illness. Mr. Dickson was the best known of American planters. He was the originator of the noted "Dickson Cotton," so extensively used in the South, and wrote several works on agricultural subjects, besides contributing extensively to the Southern Cultivator and other publications.

The Southern Home says that the Centennial Committee have invited Hon. John Kerr to be one of the orators at the celebration on the 20th of May. The other address will be delivered by a Tennessee orator. The selection of Judge Kerr as the orator on the part of North Carolina is a happy one. He is one of our most gifted men and eloquent speakers, and will brilliantly grace the occasion.

An eminent member of the bar of the Supreme Court said to-day that any innkeeper or theatre proprietor, fortified by the opinion of Judge Emmons, need have no apprehensions in violating such provisions of the civil rights bill as applied to his business. Washington telegram.

The Landmark says the British steamer San Marcos was cleared from Norfolk on Saturday with a cargo of 3,368 bales of cotton for Liverpool. This is additional evidence of the growing importance of Norfolk as a direct shipping point, and new confirmation to the hope that the South is cutting loose from its dependence upon New York.

The Washington Chronicle pretends to believe that there is much probability of Jefferson Davis being made the democratic candidate for the Presidency in 1876. The only capital now left to the radical party is cold-blooded lying and the Chronicle evidently intends to deal in its full share of that stock.

U. S. Senator Bruce, colored, of Mississippi, who astonished his brother members by getting shaved and shampooned in the Senatorial barber shop the other day, is a native of Halifax county, Virginia.

Wm. J. Story, editor of the Chicago Times, has been sentenced to 10 days imprisonment for the publication of articles constructively reflecting on members of the grand jury.

The Civil Rights Bill has been declared unconstitutional by a federal judge and indirectly so by a member of the Supreme Court of the United States. Wasn't it a monstrous radical fraud upon ignorant negro dupes? But it is the same old game which has been that party's policy since the war to bamboozle coffee for the purpose of securing his vote.

Gen Joseph E. Johnson has accepted an invitation to serve as Chief Marshal at the coming Charlotte Centennial on the 20th May.

It is announced that the two daughters of the late Mr. Greeley will sail for Europe on the 1st of May.

"Louisiana is forgotten."—But she can't forget.
